On Dec. 27, 2004 a monument to Yugoslavia's late antifascist fighter and communist leader Josip Broz Tito was blasted with an explosive device in his native village of Kumrovec. Dalibor Martinis took over the vacated position on the pedestal to commemorate this date. On January 14, 2005 Martinis did a performance in which he reenacted the event of decapitation of Tito's sculpture by cutting the head of a small bronze replica.
